ANTHONY EDEN TAKES BRITISH FOREIGN HELM

Hint of More Aggressive Policy Seen By Some Observers

HALIFAX IS NAMED U. S. AMBASSADOR

Change May Bring Improved Relations With Soviet, Germany

(By Associated Press) LONDON, Dec. 23. — Anthony Eden took over the foreign secretariat today in a quick change interpreted by some neutral sources as fore-shadowing a more aggressive British diplomacy, possibly including improved relations with Soviet Russia.

His predecessor, Lord Halifax, will rest several days in the north of England before leaving for his new post as ambassador to Washington "early in the new year."

"Most Important Post"

Eden assumed his new duties only a few hours after a cabinet shift sent Halifax, the gaunt conservative who had guided the British foreign office through "appeasement" and thus far in the war, to what Prime Minister Churchill termed the "most important post outside this country."

Some sources recalled that Eden, whom Halifax replaced as foreign secretary Feb. 20, 1938, and who then was regarded as too anti-Nazi to please Adolf Hitler, had visited Moscow in his former tenure in the foreign office.

The Russians regarded Halifax and the late Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain as foes of a British-Russian rapprochement.

Eden's post as secretary of war was to Capt. David Margesson, 50, chief government whip in commons.

Additional cabinet changes were expected by some observers, including possibly the appointment of World War Premier David Lloyd George to the government.

Won Fame in India

Schooled at aristocratic Eton and Oxford and tested in the colonial administration, Halifax first came into the world limelight as the British viceroy in India from 1926-31, when he held down the lid while India's millions seethed through the civil disobedience campaign.

The succession of Lord Halifax to the post left vacant by the death of Lord Lothian removes the last great figure in the London government associated with Chamberlain in the appeasement policy.

The press generally acclaimed the appointment but there was a minor questioning note such as the Laborite Daily Herald's comment that "no note of the score of the past we confess to some reserve on the wisdom of this appointment."

The Times, however, said, "that Lord Halifax was more than welcome in Washington there can be no doubt whatever."

The appointment of Margesson to succeed Eden in the war office came as something of a surprise.

CHRISTMAS CANDY—YOU EXTEND THE SEASON'S GREETINGS BY SENDING HENDRICK'S CANDY MADE IN SALEM

Sole Survivor In Sea Tragedy Seen Waving For Help

A dramatic picture, made from a Royal Air Force plane, shows a Captain Whitehead of Leeds, England, sole survivor of a torpedoed ship, standing on the wreckage of a lifeboat as he waved hopefully to the plane that found him and later guided a warship to his rescue.

POSTOFFICE CREW ON 'HOME STRETCH'

Record Cancellation of Mail Is Reported by Postmaster

Employees at the postoffice with the help of assistant clerks and carriers, waded through stacks of mail and parcels yesterday and today in an attempt to have the Christmas mail—described as the heaviest in years—distributed to Salem home by Tuesday evening.

Carriers and clerks alike worked all Sunday at the postoffice sorting the mail so that it might be ready for delivery today. There was no delivery here yesterday.

Record cancellation of letters—mostly Christmas cards—were reported by Postmaster A. E. Beardmore for the week ending Saturday.

The cancellations, excluding the 7,270 figure of yesterday, totaled 205,050. Last Friday, the "peak" day, had 52,000 cancellations. The report for the entire week showed:

Monday—11,810; Tuesday—17,710; Wednesday—32,830; Thursday—44,700; Friday—52,000; Saturday—46,000.

Ten to 12 extra clerks and as many substitute carriers are on the job to ease the burden of the regular postoffice workers. Parcel post packages have poured in and out of the postoffice for days. Two extra trucks have been hired to assist in deliveries. In one day alone a total of 500 parcels were insured.

National Guards Home For Holiday

(By Associated Press) Ohio National Guardsmen returned home today to spend the Christmas holidays.

More than 7,000 men—80 percent of the 37th division in training for one back on a nine-day mission—came back on a nine-day furlough arranged by their commanding officer, Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler.

The men, training under the national defense program, must return to camp Jan. 2. They returned to Ohio by special train, bus and automobile.

The men who had to stay behind will find special entertainment and holiday menus.

While speaking of menus, Camp Shelby officers reported that the 9,000 men in the 37th division consumed the following in November alone: 40 tons of beef, 10 tons of pork, 11 tons of veal, seven and one-half tons of turkey, six tons of chicken, 10 tons of ham, six tons of bacon, 22,000 eggs, a quarter million pints of fresh milk and 55,000 cans of condensed milk.

Places were arranged for about 50 guests, among whom was Mrs. Ralph Couch of Shanghai, China, a sister of Mrs. Burt Leeper of this city. Others were from Columbiana and Salem.

Pine, candy canes and large silver balls tied with red ribbons decorated the table, arranged in the shape of a square U and lighted by tall white tapers in crystal holders. Pine, poinsettias and mistletoe were used throughout the rooms and a large decorated Christmas tree with vari-colored lights was a feature.

An informal social hour was enjoyed following the dinner.

COUNCIL CONFERS ON FUND PROBLEM

Levies Believed To Be Legal; Figures Not Available Yet

Members of City council's finance committee, Mayor Norman Phillips and City Auditor Karl Webster reported the city's financial picture "somewhat brightened" today following a conference in Lisbon this morning with members of the Columbiana county budget commission.

County Auditor Ross Tisher announced that a close study of law and budgets of the various county sub-divisions disclosed that "nearly all" the levies whose legality was questioned last week are, in fact, perfectly legal.

However, a complete and definite picture of the city's financial outlook for the coming year is unavailable, city officials say, pending completion of the county budget and fixture of the new tax rates, it was pointed out.

This disclosure came as relieving news to Salem officials who last week were informed that the city's entire operating millage of 3.2 would have to be used for bond retirement in 1941.

The county auditor did not specify which of the districts will escape curtailment but did say that Salem will not face that problem. Salem had feared the loss of $45,000 in operating revenue.

Tisher told city officials that when the final rates are fixed for the different sub-divisions they will be announced and explained.

What Is The Bottleneck Holding Up Nazi Flying?

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE If somebody will be good enough to put his finger on the mysterious bottleneck which has prevented the Germans from employing more than a limited number of warplanes over Britain at any one time, then I will make a close guess as to whether Hitler will succeed in the invasion which England is expecting him to attempt in the near future.

The importance of this query is emphasized by the week-end feat of the Royal Air Force in ranging western Europe from Norway to the Adriatic for bombing raids over six countries.

Invasion of England must be premised on such absolute control of the air that Britain and her 3,000,000 soldiers can be bombed into near insensibility before an effort is made to land a Nazi army from small boats on the channel. Anything short of that means disastrous failure for the Germans.

Obviously Nazidom thus far hasn't possessed anything like control of the air—or at least hasn't exhibited it.

ARREST SEVEN IN PRE-YULE SAFETY DRIVE

Highway Patrolmen Range District On Eve of Holidays

OFFICERS FORCED OFF ROAD BY BUS

At Least 26 Killed In Ohio Over Weekend and Today

Violent death struck hard in Ohio over the weekend, killing at least 26 persons on the eve of the Christmas holidays. According to The Associated Press, 19 died in traffic, three fell to death, guns killed two, a baby was scalded and an army pilot perished in a plane crash near Dayton.

Salem state highway patrolmen, patrolling the district highways in an attempt to curb reckless driving during the heavy flow of holiday traffic, saw one accident happen almost in front of them, and investigated several others over the weekend.

Seven Arrested

Seven motorists were arrested, all of them on charges of reckless operation and excessive speed.

Automobiles driven by Thomas Frederick, 43, of Beaver Falls, Pa., and Raymond Candel, 24, of R. D. 1, Columbiana, overturned after sideswiping on Route 14, a half-mile west of Unity, at 11:55 p. m. Saturday.

Corp. W. E. Arey and Patrolman Kenneth Overholt came upon the scene right afterwards and assisted in pulling the motorists from their cars. Candel, whose machine was upside down, escaped unhurt.

Frederick and a companion, Delbert McLane, 43, also of Beaver Falls, were brought to Salem City hospital and treated for cuts and bruises. Frederick also received a chest injury.

In another accident on Route 14 at Unity two hours earlier, Miss Geraldine Juan, 18, of Youngstown, escaped with body bruises when the machine in which she was riding was struck by a Greyhound bus.

Miss Juan was knocked from the car, driven by Arthur E. Taylor, 32, of Youngstown. The bus was in charge of M. Seddon of Pittsburgh. Taylor was reported to have driven out of a side road. He saw the bus and then attempted to stop.

Patrol Forced Off Road

Returning from the vicinity of these accidents, the patrolmen themselves were forced off the road when another Greyhound bus attempted to pass a truck at the crest of a hill at Firestone park, near Columbiana. The officers stopped the bus and told the driver to appear here tonight to answer to a charge of reckless driving.

SCHOOL FUNDS IN KNOX, WEST WIN APPROVAL

Operating Levies Given Majorities at Special Elections

REVERSE RESULT OF NOV. 5 BALLOT

Other Townships To Vote On Similar Issues In Next Two Weeks

Three-mill operating levies were approved in the Knox and West township rural school districts in special elections Saturday, returns showed today. The levies received striking majorities although the vote was not as heavy as had been anticipated.

Knox township sanctioned the levy, 408 to 105, and West approved a similar issue, 329 to 112.

Both districts rejected levies at the Nov. 5 general election after which the West township schools closed because operating funds were not available. The Knox board of education warned voters that if the levy lost again, it would be forced to close the schools under its jurisdiction.

The Knox vote by precincts was:

	For	Against
East pct	170	35
West pct	238	70
Total	408	105

The West township vote:

	For	Against
Bayard pct	139	21
New Chambersburg	104	64
East Rochester	86	27
Total	329	112

Only simple majorities were required for the levies to pass. The board of elections today certified the results to the county auditor, the state tax commission and Secretary of State George Neffner.

Center rural school district will vote on a three-mill operating levy Saturday, while Beaver and Hanover school zones will hold special school elections Dec. 30. Franklin school district will vote on a three-mill operating levy Jan. 7.

Twelve Initiated By Phalanx Group

Twelve members of the Dukes of Salem were initiated by the Phalanx fraternity at impressive ceremonies Sunday afternoon in the Memorial building here.

The initiatory work was conducted by the N. Canton Phalanx unit, at a candle ceremony conducted by Orvil Miller.

The principal speaker was City Solicitor Henry Rees, who discussed "Youth Organizations." Pointing out that character is molded in the formative years and eventually reflected in the life of the individual in the community, Atty. Rees outlined the real meaning of the term, "gentleman," often misinterpreted by some.

Others who commented briefly were Jack Coughlin of the Canton Y. M. C. A., who discussed the growth of the Phalanx; and John Herman, Salem club advisor, on "Meaning of the Phalanx to the Youth of a Community."

The group met first in the morning at Herman's home and later went to church, 30 attending services. A luncheon at noon preceded the initiation.

CANNELTON, Ind.—If a man bites a dog, that's news.

If a dog shoots a dog, that's like what happened on Charles Goering's hunting trip. He told the story this way:

Goering, with two dogs following, started down a hill, his shotgun at his side.

Both dogs dashed up from behind and slid down the gun muzzle. A paw of the second tripped the trigger. The gun went off and killed the first dog.

THE NAZI SAY, 'WAKE UP AMERICA.'

Adolf Hitler's German government has had ample provocation to feel huffy about the United States government. Beginning with President Roosevelt's famous quarantine speech in 1937, this country has steered a course at right angles to Nazi interests. Not only its policies but its declarations were hostile to Nazi aims.

The declarations sometimes have been questioned. They were questioned in the recent presidential campaign by President Roosevelt's opponent, Wendell L. Willkie, whose opinion was expressed when he said, "We must quit making gestures with an empty gun."

Outside partisan politics there were questions, too. It was taken for granted that the United States would and should act on the assumption that Germany ultimately was going to threaten its existence, but cautious souls pointed out that this country, lacking trained manpower and arms, would do well to refrain from heckling the Nazis until ready to face the consequences.

All that is water over the dam now. The Hitler government officially has taken cognizance of United States hostility. It has attempted to frighten Americans by doing some bristling of its own. It has called this government's acts and words "insupportable." The thing cautious souls dreaded has happened; Germany has decided not to continue to act as though it didn't know what was in the minds of most Americans—that there was irreconcilable conflict between Nazi aims and American aims.

There is no need, no time, no excuse now for recriminations. The United States has been playing a dangerous game which suddenly has become more dangerous. It has been reminded sharply by the bellwether of the nations that have gone on the prowl that they don't intend to wait for Uncle Sam to get rid of his surplus fat and complacency at his own convenience. Perhaps this is what was needed to wake up the sleeping giant of American dynamism. The foolish fancy that the United States was going to have plenty of time to make itself strong before it needed to be strong has been knocked cold by Nazi bristling, the one thing lacking so far to make Americans realize that what's happening isn't a moving picture but the real thing.

THE MEN ARE THE THING

On the face of it, reorganization of the authority at the top of the national defense program is a distinct improvement. William S. Knudsen and Sidney Hillman, working with Secretaries Knox and Stimson, should make some sort of a dream backfield for the big game America is playing. It isn't possible to imagine that delegation of authority to the men who best know what trouble has been caused by lack of authority will not facilitate the preparedness effort, nor is it possible to imagine that President Roosevelt doesn't mean exactly what he says—that Messrs. Knudsen and Hillman will be boss.

But at the outset of the period in which their effort and the effort of all persons in any way concerned with defense is due to become more intense than it has been previously, it obviously is the men, rather than the system, that will tell the story. In other words, it is more important to have two men like Knudsen and Hillman working under a patchwork system than to have 200 mediocre fellows working under the best system in the world. There is no intrinsic merit in systems; the merit is in men. With due apology for bringing them into the discussion, Adolf Hitler and Hermann Goering, using a system made out of matchsticks and glue, have done more with it than Benito Mussolini and a horde of fellows using a system almost as pretty on paper as anything ever turned out on a blueprint. And with no apology due at all, Winston Churchill has made Great Britain strong using virtually the same system under which Britain became weak.

In the spirit of the season, Americans wish William S. Knudsen and Sidney Hillman a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year—and particularly a Happy New Year.

WHO'S EFFICIENT?

The rush, which a few days ago was beginning, is now almost over. It never stands still long enough to become commonplace, but year after year holds its place in the national phenomena class.

It is something to ponder over while falling asleep that once a year at Christmas almost every ambulant American covers from twice to 20 times as much ground as usual, that all Americans ambulant and otherwise contribute something or other to the air of suspense and excitement which are the distinguishing characteristics of Christmas, that trains become overloaded, that millions of pieces of extra mail are stuffed into mail bags, that tens of millions of articles change hands solely because it's Christmas, that the gait and tempo of everything people do is different—yet somehow everything comes out right side up.

All but a very few of the things that have changed hands end up in the right hands, the clerks and postal employes recover, millions of men, women and children mill about seemingly in the greatest confusion and all arrive where they want to be, and even Christmas dinner is put on the table and duly eaten when the appointed time comes. It's something to think about when talk turns to efficiency. With no idea of being efficient at all, but just of having fun, Americans have made Christmas about the most efficient thing there is.

LAST CALL

The success of alien registration—Dec. 26 is the deadline—is a tribute to the thoroughness of public information. There is every reason to believe that in retrospect one of the most difficult jobs attempted in a long time will look like little short of a triumph for the kind of efficiency that grows out of mutual confidence between the government and the people. Penalties for failure to comply with the alien registration act are high—$1,000 fine, six months in jail, or both. Naturally, there will be some aliens who will risk the consequences of getting caught, rather than the risk of registration, but to some extent that is the thought behind the law. Like the driver's license law in Ohio, the greatest crime will be inability to produce the proper paper at the proper time.

In this connection, it is no more than the decent duty of citizens and aliens properly registered to make sure that any aliens of their acquaintance who have not complied with the law do so before the Dec. 26 deadline. There will be no extension of time, and there will be enforcement machinery to apprehend delinquents.

EXCITEMENT, commotion and confusion may dominate on this day, judging by the particularly high-pressure chain of the forceful planets. Thrills, drama, acute stimulation of the nervous, emotional and mental systems may be keyed to ways of folly and distress. Be guided by wise counsel and holy ideals.

Those whose birthday it is may be at the entrance of a year in which much upset, disturbance and loss may enter into the affairs unless there be rigid control of the impulses, emotions and mental proclivities. With proper restraints the year may bring forth some surprising gains and happiness.

A child born on this day although resourceful, energetic and ambitious may be carried away by rash or temperamental outbursts. Its quest for thrills, excitement, romance and adventure, may lead into dangerous experiences. Early discipline is suggested.

VOLUNTEER TO FLY FOR U. S.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—After encountering difficulties earlier this year, the army air corps now is signing up an ample number of volunteers for training as fliers.

War department officials reported today that more than twice as many young men as needed had qualified to complete a class of 1,600 fledgling pilots who will start training Jan. 2.

More than 2,100 others will provide a backlog for another group to enter scattered primary training schools five weeks later.

But other hundreds of volunteers between 20 and 27 must come forward weekly, officials said, to assure adequate numbers of fliers.

Major General Henry H. Arnold, deputy chief of staff, has disclosed that the possibility of lowering standards was under consideration, including the use of enlisted men as well as youthful commissioned officers as pilots.

As a part of the vast acceleration of defense efforts, pilot training is being accelerated toward a rate of 7,000 a year, and next summer the objective will be raised to 12,000 or more.

An intensified recruiting campaign, employing advertising on a national scale, is one explanation of the existing surplus. Another is that the training has not been speeded up according to schedules. The January class was to have numbered 2,400, but had to be reduced because of delays in delivering training planes.

MERRY CHRISTMAS FOR THE "SLACKERS"?

CLENDENING COMMENTS ON SMOKING

Discusses Tobacco and Its Effect On Your Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Tobacco is an easy thing to blame for nearly anything that happens to be the matter with you or especially happens to be the matter with some member of your family whom you think smokes too much. It undoubtedly has definite effects on different functions and organs of the body but recent research has tended to show that it does not do as much permanent harm as was once claimed. In sensitive people it sometimes upsets digestion, especially in those who chew tobacco.

Dr. Clendinging will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

One definite action of tobacco is to cause a spasm of the small arteries and this, under certain circumstances, may be so definite as to require that its use be stopped before permanent damage occurs. Two conditions in which such a contingency may arise are angina pectoris and disease of the small arteries of the feet which is known as Buerger's disease.

Spasm May Be Serious

Angina pectoris is almost certainly due to spasm of the arteries which supply the muscle of the heart. When these arteries become narrowed and inelastic due to the process of aging, such spasm may be very serious. "Angina" means pain and attacks are characterized by a severe pain under the breast-bone or in the region of the heart.

In studying a group of patients who had angina with reference to their habits in regard to tobacco, a committee of physicians found that angina in those under 50 is definitely increased by the use of tobacco. Approximately 80 per cent of men between the ages of 40 and 50 who had angina were smokers.

whereas in the same age group of men who had no angina, only 60 per cent were smokers. Taking a group of people who actually had angina and comparing them with those who did not have it, there was about three times as much angina among smokers as among non-smokers. After about the age of 60, however, smoking seems to have little influence.

Tobacco Not Cause

Analyzing this data, it is probable that tobacco really had little to do with bringing about the changes in the arteries which were fundamental in causing the angina. It is the same thing with athletes and so-called "athlete's heart". It is hard to say exactly what anybody means by "athlete's heart" but we do know that athletes are likely to die in a larger proportion of angina pectoris than people who have not been strenuous athletes in their youth. This probably means that they are spasmogenic individuals.

But it is very certain that if there is one attack of angina or a tendency to angina, tobacco will tend to make the condition worse and to bring on attacks. In other words, tobacco does not cause the arterial change that results in angina, but it may aggravate it after angina begins.

These studies are not meant as a warning to avoid tobacco altogether but simply that when spasm of the arteries of the heart or in the feet begins, it would be well to attempt to give it up.

PLEA OF EXPERT

Check Electrical Equipment Around Tree Is Timely Suggestion

"This year let's see if we can't keep all of the fire engines in their houses during Christmas week," says Electrical Inspector George Sanquist of the Central Inspection Bureau. So far as electrical hazards are concerned, if we exercise a little care there need not be a single fire.

When electric lights were substituted for lighted candles, the greatest source of Christmas fires was eliminated. But electric lamps have brought some lesser hazards of their own. Sanquist wants these hazards understood so they can be avoided.

Each year about a hundred fires throughout the country result from faulty tree sets, usually accounting for several deaths. Such fires occur when exposed "live" parts of the sets become short-circuited, he explained. Sometimes it is tinsel or other metal tree decorations that touch exposed live parts of the sets, causing the short-circuit, and in other cases two live parts of the set itself come into contact. If the set is in proper condition there will be no such exposed parts, and the lights will be perfectly safe.

Some Bulbs Faulty

If a lamp bulb does not fit correctly in its socket, part of the lamp base may be exposed to contact. Foreign made lamps often have long bases which create this condition. Before you buy a set, see if the bulbs fit properly. Or if you intend to use last year's set, examine it carefully to see if all bulbs fit well, leaving no gap that tinsel is likely to touch. Look also at the condition of the wires. See if the insulation has pulled out of the sockets so as to expose the wires, or whether the insulation has dried up and broken off at any point. If so, throw the set away and buy a new one. Examination of insulation should apply also to wreaths, candles and all electrical decorations.

Fatal Accidents

Last year a little girl in Mount Vernon, N. Y., was using her now wood-burning set under the Christmas tree. When she set the iron down it ignited the cotton under the tree. If the child's parents wanted the snow effect, they should have used one of the non-inflammable products available for the purpose. There were two other cotton "snow" fires reported last year, both caused by electric trains. The train tracks were laid on cotton and made to encircle the tree. Overturning of the cars caused sparks which ignited the cotton. In one of these cases two lives were lost.

Shock Hazards Exist

Electric trains are generally safe under normal conditions. This particular toy which connects directly to the house circuit. In considering electrical toys as gifts to children, it should be remembered that the same hazards exist in these, as in appliances built for adult use. This is true, particularly of the shock hazard. The part of the toy most likely to cause trouble is the electric cord. If this be of poor quality it is likely to be damaged on sharp edges. It is particularly important therefore that electrical toys be equipped with safe, rugged cords. It is wise to look for the bracelet-like label of Underwriters' Laboratories on these cords. The same precaution is advisable in buying lamps and appliances as Christmas presents. The safer construction of labeled cords means longer and safer operation of appliances.

Because of the increasing use of Christmas tree sets out of doors, some precautions on this subject are advisable. Shock hazards are greatly increased in the presence of water or damp earth. Be sure, therefore, that all insulation on the wires is intact before installing an outdoor set. Don't turn the current on till all wires are in place. Take care not to touch metal parts when replacing lamps. Use sets specially designed for outdoor use.

Four More States Aid
In Cancer Campaign

CHICAGO—Four states this year embarked on cancer control measures which if applied nationally, experts said, would save 35,000 lives annually.

The council of state governments reported that Illinois, South Carolina, Vermont and Wisconsin had established cancer control divisions. Six states—Connecticut, Georgia, Maryland, Massachusetts, New York and Pennsylvania—previously had adopted programs for control of cancer, which is the second major cause of death in the United States.

"Blue Baby" Mystery Solved

Since birth four months ago, Joyce Baker had spells during which her face and body turned blue. Then someone had the bright idea of taking x-rays and the mystery was solved. Lodged in her throat just above the larynx was an open safety pin, which periodically shut off her wind. The pin removed, she is shown with nurse at her home in Rockhall, Md.

BEGIN MANGANESE
SURVEY IN U. S.

Bureau of Mines Regards
Fifty Ore Deposits As Promising

(By United Press)

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah—Tests to determine America's ability to produce sufficient manganese for defense needs, particularly in an emergency when foreign supplies would be cut off, have started at the Salt Lake City experiment station of the U. S. Bureau of Mines.

More than 100 tons of ore, trucked in from 50 deposits in five western states, awaited examination by the metallurgical division of the station.

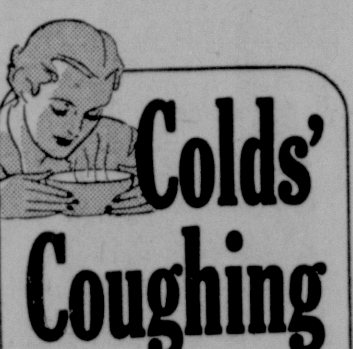

Officials did not minimize the importance of the tests. At present, the United States imports 96 per cent of all manganese used, and virtually every ton of steel contains a percentage of the vital metal. Since Russia, British African possessions, and the Orient are the principal sources, the ore might become unobtainable in event of war.

Of the 50 western deposits considered worth testing as possible mine sites, 35 are in Utah. The others are in Nevada, Wyoming, Idaho, and Oregon.

Obtaining the test ore, a major project in itself, began some weeks ago under the direction of Paul T. Allsman, head of the bureau's mining division. Dr. R. S. Dean, chief engineer of the metallurgical division, is directing the manganese experiments.

Dean recently revealed plans for establishing a $400,000 pilot plant at Boulder City, Nev., for electrolytic treatment of low-grade manganese ore.

Tests have been in progress on ore mined from the Drum mountain deposit, south of Salt Lake City.

Miriam Hopkins is starred in "The Lady with Red Hair", film version of the memoirs of a belle of the nineties, Mrs. Leslie Carter, which shows—Tuesday only at the State.

The dramatic talents which have been hidden under mediocre and second lead roles in recent years shine in Miss Hopkins' latest performance as the glamorous stage favorite.

Claude Rains, Laura Hope Crews, Richard Ainley, Helen Westley, John Littel, Mona Barrie, Victor Jory, Fritz Lieber, Johnny Russell and Cecil Kellaway have supporting roles.

A Dayton girl whose blazing red locks and ambitious green eyes fascinated a generation of theatergoers a few years back, Mrs. Carter was a figure of mystery and brilliance. Determined to become a famous actress and to win back her son despite a divorce scandal, the girl and her mother go to New York and enlist the help of David Belasco.

Setbacks only spur her on until she achieves success.

Concluding at the State tonight is the Marlene Dietrich-John Wayne film, "Seven Sinners".

The Grand's double bill Tuesday will be "Three Men from Texas", a Clarence E. Mulford Hopalong Cassidy story, with William Boyd; and "Up in the Air" with Frank Darro, Marjorie Reynolds and Mantan Moreland.

RAF PLANES BLAST MANNHEIM AGAIN

Germany, Italy and Nazi- Conquered Countries Are Bombed

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, Dec. 23—RAF planes again based the German industrial center of Mannheim and the nearby suburb of Ludwigshafen last night and also attacked the invasion ports of Flushing, Dunkerque and Calais, the air ministry announced today.

It was the second weekend attack on Mannheim, important Rhine-Rail junction and manufacturing city, which last week was raided heavily on four successive nights.

One Plane Lost

Last night's attack culminated in a series of British raids on Saturday on German, Italy and four Nazi-conquered countries. The air ministry said only one plane was lost in the latest forays.

Reports from Switzerland that unidentified planes passed over the Alps last night for the second consecutive night indicated the British also might have struck again into Italy. The Swiss reports said Bern, Basel and Zurich had alarms and 11 persons were injured by bombs dropped near Zurich.

Observers believed the renewed attack on often-bombed Mannheim was intended to sever the main rail link between Germany's vast Saar valley coal fields and the war-torn heavy industries of northern Italy.

One source said such raids were the RAF's part in a British land, sea and air effort to knock the Nazis out of the war quickly, thus releasing Britain's Mediterranean fleet for Atlantic convoy duty and to guard against the still-present threat of German invasion.

Pilots returning from the far-flung raids which the British said cost only one plane told of inflicting heavy damage from Norway to the Adriatic.

Daybreak Bombardment

The most spectacular of the raids was a 1,600-mile round trip attack across the Alps to the head of the Adriatic, and daybreak bombardments of German naval bases at Wilhelmshaven, Germany, and Lorient and Brest, France.

The air ministry reported fires were started in a petroleum refinery and docks and factory buildings at Porto Marghera, near Venice, in a half-hour attack around Saturday midnight.

The British admiralty announced last night the apparent loss of the 640-ton overdue submarine Swordfish.

Meanwhile, one observer expressed the opinion that the increasing force of Britain's blows against Germany from the air and against Italy from the air, sea and land seemingly gave Germany only two alternatives:

1—Invasion of England before Britain's sinews of war had been strengthened fully by home and empire production and an increasing flow of materials from the United States;

2—Enforcement of a more effective blockade, at least doubling the present average shipping toll of 62,000 tons a week.

Next to the Last

AMESBURY, Mass.—Police were summoned to the next to the last roundup when a farmer reported his turkeys had escaped and were blocking traffic.

"The glint in the eyes of some of those motorists boded no good for the birds," the farmer said after the policemen had corralled the gobblers.

The last roundup comes today when they go to the block.

Methodists Have Special Program

A large congregation attended the beautiful Christmas service given at the morning worship hour in the Methodist church Sunday by the junior and senior choirs of the church and soloists.

The Christmas cantata, "The Child Jesus," by Joseph W. Clokey and Hazel Jean Kirk was presented, directed by Homer S. Taylor, organist and choir master.

The complete service, featuring the two choirs of about 70 voices, follows: Processional hymn, "O Come, All Ye Faithful"—"Adeste Fideles"; organ invocation, "Christmas Pastoral on Silent Night" (Gruber-Harker); prayer.

"The Child Jesus," Christmas cantata: "The Promise"—"O Come, O Come, Emmanuel" (Gregorian Melody); "The Annunciation"—"To Mary, Gabriel Was Sent" (Barnes air) O. A. Naragon, male chorus, and Miss Ruth Alice Stoudt; "The Apparition to the Shepherds"—"The First Noel" (traditional), junior and senior choirs.

"The Adoration of the Shepherds"—"Our Footsteps Let Us Turn" (Swedish carol), male chorus; "The Star"—"Shine, O Shine, Thou Christmas Star" (Polish carol), women's chorus, with Mrs. F. J. Stoudt as pianist.

"The Wise Men"—"We Three Kings of Orient Are" (J. H. Hopkins), male chorus and senior choir; "At the Manger"—"Ho, Jeannette, Isabelle" (old French carol) R. C. Albright, Miss Nellie Naragon and Mrs. D. N. Bailey, with choir.

ITALY KILLS TWO SPIES; 22 JAILED

Alleged "Network of In- formers" Smashed, Rome Announces

(By Associated Press)
ROME, Dec. 23—The execution of two men as spies and the imprisonment of 22 other persons, two of them women, revealed the smashing of an alleged "network of informers" which some observers thought today might have been related to the damaging British raid on Taranto naval base Nov. 11.

Aurelio Cocozza, described as an impostor traveling salesman of Taranto, and Francesco Ghezzi, a naval officer, were shot by a firing squad at dawn yesterday, only a few hours after they were condemned and before any official announcement of the trial was made.

In another weekend development, Virginio Gayda, potent Fascist editorial voice, suggested the possibility of "complications" with the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo axis should the United States permit belligerents merchant ships now refueled in her harbors to fall into British hands.

Says Britain's Hungry

He said a suggestion by British Minister of Shipping Ronald Cross for sale of more American ships as well as his eyeing of Axis vessels in American ports showed growing hunger and disheartenment in Britain under the Axis counter blockade.

"It could not be imagined that these more or less clandestine North American interventions in the war would continue in the long run without complications with reference to the three-power pact of Berlin," Gayda wrote in the newspaper La Voce d'Italia.

(This statement followed a declaration by a German foreign office spokesman that Cross was "inciting America to commit a war-like act" against the Axis by suggesting assignment to Britain of belligerents' ships in United States harbors and that the U. S. reaction was "being awaited by Germany with extraordinary interest.") (United States Secretary of State Cordell Hull declined comment on the Berlin assertion.)

Super Service

PORTLAND, Ore. — Apartment dwellers in the west side district found their faucets spouting charged water.

Sid Benedict, water engineer, traced the cause to a nearby service station. The attendant said he accidentally had attached an air compressor hose to a city water pipe instead of to the station's air hose.

Executive Dies

CINCINNATI, Dec. 23—Albert A. Montgomery, 78, a Western Union Telegraph Co. employe for 57 years, during which time he served as general superintendent of the Lake division including Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin, died here.

"When to the Earth the Christ Child Came" (Danish carol); "Adeste Fideles", junior and senior choirs.

Announcements: offertory, "There's a Song in the Air" (Harrington) junior choir; hymn, "Joy to the World" (antioch); benediction and response; organ postlude, "For Onto Us a Child Is Born" (G. F. Handel).

Flowers Will Add To Enjoyment of the Holiday Season

Christmas will be here Wednesday, probably the outstanding holiday of the year.

It will be the signal for the reunion of families and friends, with the home and the dinner table as the factors contributing to the full enjoyment of the occasion.

There will be in most instances, two time-honored "standbys" in evidence for the observance. The proverbial Christmas fowl will be one, and—almost as important—the appropriate decorations, flowers in most cases.

One would be incomplete without the other. There are more than merely physical desires to be gratified at occasions such as this if they are to prove successful and it would be difficult to find anything better than flowers to achieve the result.

If you have not already done so, telephone Endres and Gross, local florists. Simply give them an idea of what you want and they will do the rest. You will find that a small investment will yield a big income in pleasure and your Christmas will, indeed, be a merry one.

Above, the photographer catches attractive views at the Endres and Gross shop and greenhouses.

War Zone Mail Cleared By Gob At New Orleans

(By United Press) NEW ORLEANS — Alexander Charles Denny and his amateur postoffice are keeping scores of war-separated families and lovers in communication with each other from all parts of the world.

Denny, retired ship wireless operator, has become a one-man clearing house for letters needing to be re-mailed between families living in belligerent countries. His mail grows in volume daily, because his value as a "middleman" receives word-of-mouth praise aboard many ships and in dozens of ports of the globe.

For instance, many of the letters Denny handles are intended to be sent between England and Belgium, his native country. But the only way a Belgian can get a letter through to England is to send it to a neutral country and have it re-posted for the British Isles.

So many seamen of both countries depend on the New Orleans man as medium, and the mail trip that is only a few dozen miles in peace time is now more than 5,000 miles.

Denny estimated that he has served as contact man for a least 100 families separated since the European war broke out. He has located wives for worried husbands and seafaring husbands for wives stranded in belligerent lands.

His hobby often requires Denny to translate letters, especially those written by foreign seamen to their sweethearts in the United States. Several marriages have resulted from his work as romantic intermediary.

Coincidence and luck, Denny explained, augment his knowledge of ships and seafarers in his re-direction of the mails. He told of one case in which a seafaring friend mentioned another seaman whose wife was trying to find him.

New Method of Drying Enamel

This "heatless" heater is drying the enamel on a Chrysler body at a temperature of 240° F. but you couldn't feel the heat even if you walked inside the oven. It's one of the huge induction ovens at the Chrysler Body plant where heat is produced electrically in the metal of the body so that it flows from the inside out. By this method the paint next to the metal is dried first, which results in hardness all the way through and produces a better and longer-lived finish.

COPE'S SUGGESTS LIVE YULE TREES

You Can Have Them For Planting After the Holidays

Cope Bros. and Fultz, nurserymen on the Depot rd., suggest live Christmas trees for Christmas. Spruce will keep its needles for well past the New Years if a live tree, fresh dug, balled and burlapped. Place it in a wash tub or some other convenient receptacle and water it a little each day.

If kept away from strong heat it will keep without losing any of the needles and if a little extra care is given it you can plant it out after the holidays and it will grow just as well as any other transplanted evergreen.

Cope Bros. and Fultz will dig for you any size tree you wish and have it ready for you whenever you want it.

ART'S realize the difficulty many patrons have in getting in to do their shopping in the daytime, so for the benefit of those who find it more convenient to shop after 6 p. m.,

BOWLING PROVES POPULAR PASTIME

Holiday Parties Invited to Enjoy Alleys of Grate Recreation

For health, pleasure, recreation and competitive sport, the Grate Recreations alleys, S. Ellsworth ave., offer a complete program to Salem people, young and old.

For bowling knows no age limits. Youngsters eight and 10 years of age may bowl with veterans of more advance years. Bowling easily has made probably more advancement in the last half-dozen years than any other sport.

It is inexpensive, the average bowler requiring little equipment. It has most of the body and general health-building qualities of other sports without the violence and strain.

Earl Grate, operator of the Grate alleys, calls attention to the fact that unusual opportunities are presented the bowler for his favorite pastime during the holiday season on the Grate alleys.

The upstairs alleys will be open Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday nights, and, of course, daily during the afternoons.

Three downstairs alleys will be open to the public at all times. Beginners, particularly, some of whom may be a trifle backward, find the secluded downstairs alleys

Today's Pattern

A TINY-WAISTED SPORTS DRESS Pattern 4632

Worth its weight in gold is this casual little wool dress that carries you smartly through a busy day! Pattern 4632 is a youthful Anne Adams newcomer with an easy-going, softly tailored look. There's news in that set-in, front-buttoned belt that seems to whittle down your waistline. And there's more news in the full skirt, gathered at the side front so becomingly. The neckline is convertible—button it high or turn it back into revers. You may either button the bodice to the waist, seaming the skirt down the center—or have a stunning, full-length buttoning. Those high-riding pockets are chic; your sleeves may be "bracelet" length, long or short. Do choose a soft, bright color wool or a spun rayon for this dress.

Pattern 4632 is available in junior miss sizes 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16 and 17. Size 13 takes 2 1/2 yards 54 inch fabric.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coin for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly: SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS and STYLE NUMBER.

Are you too tall? Too short? Too plump? Too slim? If you are irregularly proportioned in any way, let the ANNE ADAMS PERFECT FOUNDATION PATTERN 4114 take the guess-work out of dressmaking. This "basic figure" pattern is fitted and adjusted to your exact measurements in tissue, then cut out in muslin for a permanent record. Pin your dress patterns to it, make the necessary changes, and the finished frock will fit with perfection. Designed for sizes 14 to 20; 32 to 50. Size 16 requires 3 3/4 yards 36 inch fabric. Price 15c.

"Rides" Friend of Estranged Wife

CANTON, Dec. 23.—Detectives said today Frank Szostak, 23, had confessed trussing up a friend of his estranged wife and taking him on a strange 400-mile automobile ride.

The detectives, Norman Kandell and George Ritz, reported Szostak fettered Paul Lookabaugh, also 23, at pistol point and took him through Akron and Cleveland to Toledo, and back to Cleveland. Lookabaugh, escaped when Szostak stopped at the home of a relative near Lookabaugh to the suburban Newburg Heights police station where he related substantially the same story.

Kandell and Ritz found Szostak at the home of his attorney here last night. They said he admitted he waited outside Lookabaugh's home Saturday night and got into his automobile as Lookabaugh drove out.

They quoted him as saying he forced Lookabaugh to drive to the southwest edge of Canton where he accused Lookabaugh of keeping company with his wife, Violet, 21. Lookabaugh denied this and explained he had only taken her home from work. Szostak then tied Lookabaugh with rope and drove to his wife's home to continue the argument, the detective said he admitted.

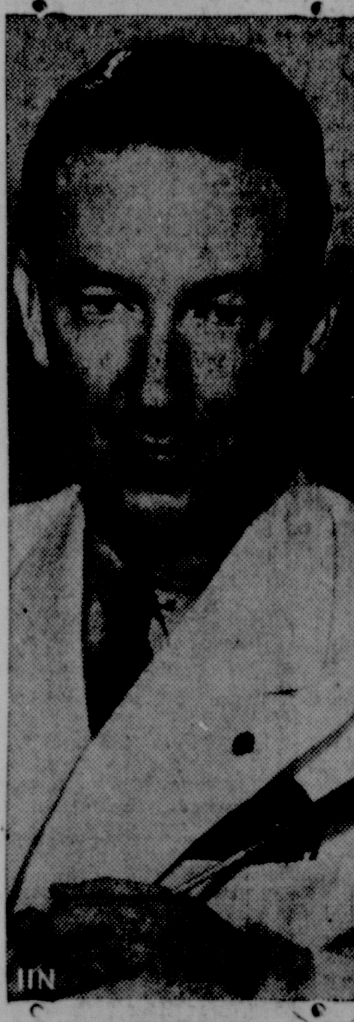

She stepped on the running board and tried to untie Lookabaugh. Szostak drove away and she dropped off and called police.

Kandell and Ritz reported Szostak admitted he then took Lookabaugh on the long ride.

After Lookabaugh escaped, Szostak abandoned the automobile and returned to Akron on a bus. He told police where to locate the car. Cleveland police found it there. Police also found the pistol which he left at the relative's home. It was not loaded.

Mrs. Szostak previously had filed assault and battery charges against her husband.

been greatly remedied since then, if not wholly repaired. The trouble is something beside want of pilots, though Germany has lost many in combat.

There are other speculative points but we seem to strike rockbottom in our inquiry for the first time when we come to the question of oil, and the gasoline which comes from it. Experts generally agreed that Germany is dangerously short of this absolute essential, without which no war machine can run.

Russia and Rumania are the only direct sources of neutral oil which the Nazis can reach. And thus far these two countries combined haven't supplied more than a fraction of the reich's requirements.

On top of that British Minister of Economics Dalton the other day stated that the Royal Air Force had bombed more than 90 per cent of the synthetic plants and 80 per cent of the refineries. This would reduce production.

Rotary Turns By Motorists In Cleveland To Be Abandoned

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, Dec. 23.—The rotary or outside turn at intersections, long the backbone of Cleveland's traffic code, is doomed.

Vernon L. Johnson, city traffic engineer, said today that a slow transition to the inside or left-on-green turn would be completed "within two years". Ninety of the 462 signal intersections already have been changed.

Cleveland is the only large city in the country using the rotary turn, whereby the driver wishing to go left pulls over to the right and waits for a green light in front of him. Its use has been debated hotly, especially in the last 10 years, but newspaper polls have shown Clevelanders favor its retention.

The orthodox turn comes in under plans to streamline the increasing flow of vehicles through the city's jammed thoroughfares. Car registrations, gaining 72,000 in the last seven years, now total 233,000 and gasoline consumption has gone up 60 per cent in the period.

Road Improvements Help
The main avenue bridge, lakefront highway and smaller projects have helped clear the way, but traffic experts say much more must be done to alleviate the constant tie-ups.

Traffic Commissioner Martin E. Blecke has recommended a three-point improvement program in which he favors legislation to allow automobiles to pass on the left side of safety zones, a reduction in speed limits, and the "inside turn."

"The rotary turn is certain to go under a new Ohio code, even if city officials disagree," Blecke declared. "The state will stipulate that inside turns be standardized. A city could retain the rotary system, but would have to post four signs at every intersection where it was used to comply with the law."

"We may have a local fight on our hands because we have always used the rotary turn. However, under the heavy flow of traffic today I don't believe it is practical at most busy corners. We may retain it at scattered intersections after tests."

Blecke believes allowing automobiles to travel to the left of safety zones will ease some of the bottlenecks. His recommendation is contingent, however, on the erection of raised safety zones for the protection of street-car riders.

"One thing is certain," he added, "our speed limit, the highest for any large city, should be cut. The present law ranges from 20 to 35 miles an hour, depending on the district. Pedestrian deaths alone show people are driving faster."

"This year approximately the same number of persons have been struck by automobiles as last year, and yet more have died. That means only one thing—motorists are going faster and hitting them harder."

Pretty Co-ed To Design Engines

COLUMBUS, Dec. 23.—Twenty-two-year-old Mary Lee Wilkerson of Middletown steps out of the ranks of Ohio State university's winter graduates today to design airplane super-chargers.

The pretty co-ed is the first woman for 40 years to get a mechanical engineering degree.

But or a keen interest in mathematics and a boundless curiosity to see what made machines operate, Mary Lee might have been a nurse or home economics teacher.

Now, she knows how to test a big boiler and do 100 and one other things usually performed by be-grimed men.

"I like aviation, though, and that's my field," she said. "Besides designing, I want to do research work. Last summer I worked in the Armco research laboratories at Middletown."

Mary Lee, in addition to carrying a schedule of such subjects as welding, machine shop work, and thermodynamics, also found time to learn to fly an airplane.

She also likes thick steaks, loves to dance and have fun and enjoys all kinds of sports.

But boys, she's engaged to D. H. Marquis, son of Prof. Franklin W. Marquis of Ohio State's department of mechanical engineering. Yes, the young Marquis is a mechanical engineer, too.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

Ann took a book from the shelf at her elbow without glancing at the title and opened it at random. The printed lines were a meaningless blur before her eyes, but she stared at them and tried to concentrate.

"You would probably manage better," murmured her aunt, if you turned it up the right way. Or is it your custom to read a book upside down?"

Without raising her eyes, Ann adjusted the book. But it might have been written in Chinese for all she understood of the lines her eyes raced along. Rancor, like a grizzly shroud, pressed murderously upon her mind.

"Sword is an oath and cathis must have their course...."

Ann read the line four times before she made sense of it. Her eyes were at last breaking up the lines into words—and Ann loved words—but her brain was not yet taking the words and understanding them. "Sword is an oath".... "oaths must have their course".... "What on earth had she got hold of?" King Henry the Fifth. That was Shakespeare. Well, any poet in a storm. Let's see if Shakespeare can make me forget that awful Gorgon who's sitting there gorging at me.

She read on. Reading was second nature to her and books more important than food. Under the spell of Shakespeare's glowing verse she fell into a trance in which Baroloph, Nym and Pistol, King Henry, Lord Scroop, and Isabel, Queen of France, were real and very much alive.... and the world about her was as far forgotten as though it had no existence. When Ann has a book, her father sometimes said, "you could shoot a cannon at her ear and she'd never hear it." That was almost true.

Time ticked away unheeded. Her eyes devouring the pages ravenously, she saw nothing, heard nothing, knew nothing except the pageantry of Shakespeare's characters and the drawing-on of their destinies. She was not even conscious of the irritable tap-tap-tap of her aunt's foot; nor was she aware when the tapping ceased....

A sudden piercing scream brought Ann back to earth with a jerk. It tore the air, like a cloth ripped up the middle.

Ann dropped the book and stared up to the doorway stood Miss Mimms, her meagre, black-clad frame wavering as though she were drunk. Her eyes were staring out of her wrinkled yellow face; her mouth hung foolishly open, making a round O. One bony finger, palsied, trembling, was pointing—pointing—

Pointing at the chair opposite that from which Ann had risen. Aunt Octavia still sat in it. She had collapsed.... completely, silently.... Her eyes were staring, her cheeks were livid. About her neck was tightly knotted a gaudy silk scarf.

"She's dead!" screamed Miss Mimms. "Dead!"

"Yes, she's dead," said Ann mechanically. "For heavens sake, shut up!"

At six o'clock that evening, at the close of a long day's fishing, Sheriff Black drove home in the mood for a highball, a hot bath, a good supper, and an early adjournment to bed. The sheriff was tall, spare, broadshouldered, a year or two over fifty. He had a lean, intelligent face, deeply lined and tanned from a lifetime spent in the open; with blunt features, a firm mouth and a squarish jaw. A closely-clipped moustache bristled above his upper lip.

Entering his house, Black found a constable sitting in the hall, who had been waiting there for considerably more than an hour. He sighed. The greatest drawback to being county sheriff was that he was never able to take a day off with any certainty that he would be allowed to enjoy it in peace.

"What is it, O'Rourke? Nothing urgent, I hope?"

"Murder," replied the constable stolidly.

"When and where?"

"The village police at Lakelawn phoned headquarters two hours ago. Sheriff. An old lady was strangled this afternoon at a house in the village."

"Have they made an arrest?"

"No, sir."

"Come into the living room."

Black strode in ahead of his subordinate and poured himself a stiff whiskey. That at least he would have, murder or no murder.

Here was a hopeful look on O'Rourke's face. Black jerked his head toward the bottle and the constable made haste to help himself.

"Who's on the job?" asked the sheriff, glancing over the rim of his glass.

"Inspector Burrows and Sergeant Feathers. They tried to get you on the phone and when they failed, the inspector asked me to get in touch with you as soon as I could."

"I see. You drive, don't you, O'Rourke?"

"Sure."

"Know the way to Lakelawn?"

"Yes."

"Then you'd better run me over there. My car's outside. Wait a minute while I change."

In a surprisingly short time Black returned, clad in tweeds and a black felt hat and they went out to the car. The sheriff fell asleep as soon as he entered the vehicle. He awoke refreshed when it drew up at the gate of Captain Osborne's house.

Three other cars and a motorcycle were parked at the edge of the road. At the gate stood a uniformed officer who was turning a deaf ear to the blandishment of a group of newspapermen, some of them with press cameras slung over their shoulders, who were clamouring for admittance. He saluted and stood aside to let the sheriff go in. Black heard several cameras click as he strode up the gravel path to the front door, where another policeman was on duty. He cocked an enquiring eye at the man.

"In the living room, Sheriff. The door to the left at the rear of the hall."

When Black entered the room a flash-bulb went off, lighting up the place for an instant with a blinding white flare. A plainclothes officer near the window took a plate out of a large camera which was focussed on the chair in which sat the corpse.

"That's five exposures from different angles, Inspector," he said. "Want any more?"

"No, five'll do. Now go outside and get me one of the room as a whole through the window. Oh, good evening, Sheriff."

"Evening, Burrows."

Black came forward and looked down at the body of Octavia Osborne.

"Any idea who did it?"

Inspector Burrows fingered his chin. A stocky thick-set, middle-aged man with a broad, homely face, he was dressed in sober grey.

"One of eight people, Sheriff," he replied. "It's going to be a tough job putting the finger on the right one."

"Eight?" How do you get that figure?"

"There's eight in the family," the Sheriff eyed the inspector stolidly.

"Like that, is it?"

Burrows nodded grimly. "Just like that. By the way, this is Doctor Denham. He's been waiting to see you."

"The Doctor and I are old friends. Good evening, Denham. Nasty business, eh?"

The doctor coughed and twirled his spectacles.

"Particularly unpleasant, Sheriff," he replied, "since the people concerned are neighbors of mine."

The death was caused by strangulation?"

"Not exactly. Heart failure was probably the cause. The shock of having the scarf passed round her neck and drawn tight killed the old lady almost before her breath was cut off."

"Oh.... Then no particular strength was exerted in the commission of the crime?"

"None. The scarf was tightly knotted but as the victim did not struggle that would be a simple matter."

"Even for a child?" asked Inspector Burrows sharply.

Doctor Denham hesitated and a heightened color flushed his pale cheeks. "Well—I suppose—Yes, even for a child," he said huskily. But—good heavens, man!—you're not suggesting—"

"I don't know that I'm suggesting," said the inspector.

"I suppose the victim's heart was weak?" put in Black. "Or she'd hardly have passed out so easily."

"It wasn't," replied the doctor. "I can be quite definite on that point because she came to see me about some slight indisposition this time last year and I was amazed to find a woman of her age so organically sound. I can only surmise that she was in an agitated state at the time and, when the scarf was thrown about her throat, she realized instantly that murder was intended."

So terrible a realization would probably be enough to stop the hearts of most elderly people."

"I see."

Doctor Denham looked distressed. He put on his spectacles and took them off again. He fumbled with the catch of his bag. He coughed.

"Something on your mind, Doctor?" asked Black casually.

"Well—I hardly like to— Look, here, Black, this sort of thing isn't in my line at all, but—oh, I suppose it's my duty to tell you. When I arrived at the house this afternoon, summoned by Mrs. Osborne, the maid led me straight in here. There were two people in the room: Mrs. Osborne and her daughter, Ann. Ann was hysterical. She was fumbling with the scarf that was tied round the dead woman's neck and, when her mother tried to pull her away, I heard her cry out: 'But Mother, it's Dorothy's scarf. It's Dorothy's! We've got to get it off.' The police hadn't been called then. I summoned them as soon as I realized that it was murder."

"This Dorothy. Who is she?"

"Dorothy is Mrs. Osborne's eldest daughter."

"Thanks, Doc. It was your duty to tell me."

"A very painful duty, I assure you, Sheriff. I think I'll go now, if you don't mind. I'll let you have my report later."

"All right. Good night."

"Good night, Sheriff. "Night, Burrows."

Hanby Credited
As 'Nellie Gray'
Ballad Author

WESTERVILLE—Fifty years of controversy over authorship of the famous American ballad, "Nellie Gray," has ended, with Benjamin B. Hanby acknowledged officially as the composer.

The Hanby state memorial in Westerville received official notice from the Stephen Foster memorial in Pittsburgh that Hanby—and not Foster—wrote the ballad.

Hanby wrote "Nellie Gray" in 1850 while a freshman at Otterbein college here. So great was the resemblance in sentiment to the songs of Foster that it erroneously began to be called one of Foster's works.

Publishing houses listed it as Foster's and even the Encyclopedia
Americana listed it among Foster's songs.

Finally a Westerville resident brought the question into national prominence with an assertion that the obscure Hanby wrote "Nellie Gray."

Despite this relative obscurity,
Hanby composed scores of songs, including the classic hymn, "Who Is He," and the popular Christmas song, "Up on the Housetop."

Loafers Down In Haiti
Facing Terms In Prison

STATE COLLEGE, Pa.—It's work or go to jail in Haiti, according to Dr. George E. Simpson, associate professor of sociology at the Pennsylvania State college.
Back from an extensive field study in Haiti, Dr. Simpson said a Haitian law provides that a peasant cultivate a field or have a parent or guardian to look after him.

If he has no field, and if his father will not assume responsibility, he is subject to arrest, and possible internment for three months.
Lazy men and romance don't agree, either, according to Dr.

Simpson. When a Haitian man proposes to a girl, she asks two questions: "Where is your field?"
and "Are you a good worker?" the professor said.

Ohio Coaches' Association Endorses Paul Brown For O.S.U. Job

Urges Massillon Coach's Appointment; Thinks That Tiger Tutor Is Deserving

Association Prexy Asks 500 Members To Boost Brown; All Northeastern Counties 100 Per Cent For Plan

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, Dec. 23.—The Ohio High School Coaches' association, through its officials, demanded today that one of its members be named head football coach at Ohio State university—and pointed to Paul E. Brown of Massillon as the man for the job.

In an unqualified endorsement of Brown, James H. (Jim) Robinson, president of the association and coach at Canton Lehigh high school, mailed letters to 500 members of the group, asking them to boost Brown for the Buckeye berth resigned last week by Francis Schmidt.

Robinson declared he conferred with representative coaches of seven northeastern Ohio counties relative to backing Brown, and said "they were 100 per cent for this action."

Should the 500 members go along with Robinson's plan, athletic director L. W. St. John of Ohio State probably will find more than holiday greeting cards in his mail box.

Robinson urged the high school coaches to write to St. John, urging Brown's appointment; to ask their state representatives to do the same; to contact Ohio State alumni with a request that they join the letter-writing parade; and to urge all local sports editors to back the candidacy.

For years the cry has gone up that Ohio State fails to get much of the good material developed in the state's high schools, and there is little doubt that an outstanding team could be selected from the stars that go to other states.

Would Get Cooperation
In promising that the state's coaches would give Brown every cooperation, should he get the Ohio State position, Robinson indicated that the association members would try to guide the graduating talent to the Buckeye university in the future.

Robinson flayed what he termed the method of selecting coaches for big college jobs—"The scrutinizing of 'big name' coaches or the list of the most recent All-America selections."

"This policy," he said has been wrong in several respects. Surely it has been unfair to the rank and file of hard-working high school coaches. We are a group of teachers who have begun our careers at the bottom and have learned our trade from the bottom up.

"Our years of application to our profession and the valuable experience it gives are of no avail, it seems, in breaking us into the field where the rewards are higher. We stay in our groove year after year, producing the skilled players sought after by the men, no better qualified than we are, who occupy the better jobs.

"Good workmanship demands promotion and remuneration. We are the blood and bone of our whole system of competitive sports. We are the teachers of the mechanics of the game. We are the moulders of the character of our youth. I say this because we are the only coaches who work with the boys during these formative periods. We merit a chance to show our ability in the better jobs.

"Paul Brown's achievement need not be reviewed. You know it. It is the greatest single job ever accomplished by one of our group. His success has been due to his knowledge of our profession, and his craftsmanship in applying that knowledge."

Robinson added that Brown, who has lost but one game of the last 60 in "the toughest, scholastic football section in the country," is a member of the National Coaches' association and the national football rules committee.

The association prexy also assailed the "haphazard setup of recent football clinics at Ohio State, and the dearth of helpful suggestions and usable ideas advanced in them," and said that in the changes he could make there, Brown could more than repay the other high school coaches for their efforts in his behalf.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

By EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Week's wash: J. J. Mooney, Detroit racing enthusiast, has named one of his yearling trotters Tiger Hank in honor of Hank Greenberg.

Miami U. (Florida) reported looking for a new football coach and they say the right guy will be offered $10,000 per. Hya, hey?

The Yankees have slapped a $30,000 price tag on Monte Pearson which may cool off Bill McKechnie a bit.

Everett, Mass., is sending its state championship football team to the Sugar Bowl game.

And Jackie Hunt of Marshall college, the nation's highest scorer, is getting a ride to the Rose Bowl from somebody.

Sorry we can't say where the money is coming from.

Oh, Oh!
Ray Lapham and Walter Brown, president and general manager of the Boston Garden, didn't see Louis and McCoy. They stuck around long enough to count the gate, then shuffled off to Buffalo to see the Sonja Henie premiere.

Did you ever see two bowl teams practicing together? Well, the Rose Bowl bound Nebraska will visit Temple, Ariz., to scrimmage with Dixie Howell's Arizona State Bulldogs who'll be in the Sun bowl.

Talk will be a sight as rare as a green waking Broadway still talking about who won the Zivich-Jenkins fight. Brooklyn Eagle says: "Zivich lucky to get draw with Jenkins." New York Sun says: "Confused referee hampers Zivich-Fritze seemed to have edge." Same way all over town.

What The Stars Say
Next year's astrological charts for leading sports figures say: Roger Peckinpah will have a successful year. Joe Louis should avoid challenges until the middle of June.

Accidents or illness may floor Joe Di Maggio up to June 10.

Sports Potpourri
When Coach Morley Jennings told a bunch of Baylor U. wolves just what they could do, the growling stopped, just like that.

This corner feels pretty low over the death of Band Leader Hal Kemp, an old friend.

Up in Maine where pari mutuels are permitted only for harness racing, the fans bet $1,580,863 this year and of this sum, $1,580,863 was returned to the public.

Tropical Park is following the example of New York tracks by opening a members' room where big operators can lose their dough "quietly."

Old Nick Altkrock, the baseball wag, (There's none so droll as he) Went on a laugh-provoking jag And climbed a grapefruit tree.

Now that's no way to play around For a guy of sixty-three; No wonder then, Nick tumbled down And broke his blooming knee.

Today's Guest Star
Dick Dashiell, Asheville (N. C.) Times: "All Hymie Caplin, the fight manager, who is mixed up in that card sharp swindle, wants for Christmas is a new deal."

Deer, Buffalo and Cows Found Grazing Together
FORT DAVIS, Tex.—Deer, buffalo and Guernsey cattle graze side by side and drink out of the same water tank on the Reynolds Brothers' ranch near Fort Davis.

The Guernsey cattle were brought to the ranch years ago, even before the white-faced Herefords dominated the range. Deer are plentiful in the area and about 27 buffalo roam the ranch.

GIMLI, Man.—Icelanders of western Canada and the northwestern sections of the United States have pledged themselves "to help Britain and Canada win the war for freedom."

INTERSECTIONAL COMPETITION TO BE HOT THIS WEEK

2 Invitation Tournaments Scheduled: State Meets Princeton Saturday

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—It's vacation time at the colleges now but basketball players are finding the holiday stretch from now until New Year's Day one of the busiest periods of intersectional competition that precedes serious conference play.

This week's schedule is somewhat lighter than it has been in the past two week or two, but what is left is made up almost entirely of "major" games, mostly intersectional.

In addition two invitation tournaments, at Oklahoma City and Topeka, Kas., each will send 16 teams into action starting Dec. 26.

A Quick Survey
A quick survey of the outstanding teams in each section lists the following:

East—Long Island, St. John's (Brooklyn) New York university, Manhattan, Seton Hall, Villanova, La Salle, Temple, Baltimore, Duquesne, Pittsburgh.

Big Ten—Indiana, Iowa and Purdue; Big Six—Kansas and Iowa State; Missouri Valley—Oklahoma Aggies and Creighton; Southwest—Rice; Big Seven, Colorado; Pacific Coast—Stanford, Southern California and Oregon State. Others in all sections may be as good or better but they haven't proved it yet.

Starting the intersectional ball rolling again tonight is a doubleheader at Philadelphia, matching Rice against La Salle and Oklahoma against Temple, William and Mary visits Bradley Tech; Pittsburgh, winner in two of three games against Big Ten rivals, meets Butler and Yale opens its mid-western tour against Washington university at St. Louis.

Indiana Wins 60-59
Indiana, the National Collegiate A. A. champion last season, began its west-coast jaunt last Saturday with a hair-raising 60-59 overtime triumph over Stanford and meets California tonight.

Illinois plays Notre Dame, preparatory to starting an eastern tour. Rutgers-Brown, Iowa-Michigan State and Minnesota-Creighton are other good pairings tonight.

Yale meets Bradley Wednesday and on Thursday there's a New York doubleheader with Santa Clara meeting City College and Illinois facing unbeaten Manhattan.

On Saturday a New York double bill sends Kansas against Fordham and Minnesota against N. Y. U. while at Philadelphia it's Illinois-Temple and Colorado-St. Joseph's. Columbus, O., also has a double offering, Princeton-Ohio State and Pittsburgh-Michigan. These pairings will be reversed Dec. 30. Other Saturday night games include Cornell-Toledo and Indiana-U. C. L. A.
